Reports from South Cause Great Excitement in European and American Markets. But Take Advantage to Boost Price.

LIVERPOOL, April 26.—The cotton market today was thrown into a state of intense excitement over the report of great damage to American crops by storm. The British dealers are placing their hopes in the possibility of the damages having been exaggerated.

Large buying orders for the new crop were placed, but price movements were inconsiderable. It is generally believed now that the question of responsibility of the losses sustained in the Knight-Vancey failure will probably lead to much costly litigation with American banks.

GIRL NEW WITNESS

Fresh Mystery in Coleman Case Before Federal Grand Jury—Lockhart Tells Story of Bank Wreck.

A mysterious young woman witness, whose identity was carefully guarded by the Government, appeared before the Federal Grand Jury today and gave testimony in the Coleman-Kelher hearing on the Cambridge bank robbing. She was brought from New York. It is believed that she knew Coleman and Kelher when they made their costly fare visits to that city.

The girl was one of a number of witnesses before the Grand Jury to-day on the bank robbing case, which included Coleman, Wilton W. Lockhart, Miss Lightfoot and Miss Atwood, friends of Coleman and Dennis J. McGillicuddy, a relative of "Big Bill" Kelher.

The mysterious woman reached Boston with a blue gown and a white collar. She was a young woman of about twenty years of age, with dark hair and a serious expression.

After the woman testified, Dennis J. McGillicuddy, Charles Foster, and other friends of Coleman and Kelher, went to a hotel in the city.

One of the directors of the Cambridge Bank, who was present at the hearing, said that he had never seen the woman before.

The woman's testimony was that she had seen Coleman and Kelher at the Cambridge bank on the day of the robbery.

YOUNG BOXMEN ON BIG TEAMS MAKING GOOD

In 1913, going to prove remarkable for the fact that a number of young pitchers will make good in the two big leagues. Several youngsters have already made satisfactory showings and there is every indication that many of them will stick throughout the season. Then again their efforts may be mere flashes in the pan. Young pitchers have started out before and made favorable auspices only to fold down later. The title "Spring bloomers" was adopted in big league circles many years ago.

Up to date, the young pitchers who have performed meritoriously are Lundy of the Naps, Browning of Detroit, Starnes of Cincinnati, Walker of Washington, and

Matrimonial Privileges of Husbands and Wives

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Company

What are the privileges a married woman should allow herself, or be allowed by her husband, in association with other men?

That is the question bothering the head of most men one woman today.

There is a woman of temperament, interested in all the events of the hour, her society and married to a business man who cares only for the outside world, but who is devotedly fond of his wife.

Her husband is a man of business, and she is a woman of business. They are both of them, and she is a woman of business.

"We clamb the hill together, now we man totter down, but hand in hand we'll go."

JOHN ANDERSON, my Jo, John, now we man totter down, John, but hand in hand we'll go, And sleep together at the foot— John Anderson, my Jo!

But now your brow is laid, John, Your looks are like the snow, But bledness on your frosty brow— John Anderson, my Jo.

Hot Weather and This Fly Are Coming

You Cannot Kill the Hot Weather, but you CAN Kill the Fly—and Avoid Disease

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Company

The flies, hot weather and disease come together.

This picture of the work that the fly does in your house is not exaggerated.

You see for yourself how two or three flies that survive the Winter suddenly multiply into thousands.

Remember that the disease germs scattered by the flies MULTIPLY BY MILLIONS AND BILLIONS.

Remember, above all things, that you and your children in order to become diseased MUST SWALLOW THE DISEASE. Few—very few—of the diseases, such as scarlet fever and smallpox, can be "caught," as the saying is.

But typhoid and the innumerable intestinal poisonings that afflict children come AND COME ONLY from swallowing disease germs.

When the flies appear in your house they come with their spongy feet laden with filth, laden with the germs of disease.

They alight and feed on garbage, on piles of the vilest refuse. One foot of one fly can bring in enough disease germs to contaminate a whole family.

You can't kill the germs—they are too small.

But you can kill the flies, AND, BETTER STILL, YOU CAN SCREEN YOUR DOORS AND WINDOWS AND KEEP THEM OUT.

If at this time of the year poisonous snakes began to appear in your house, you would make all necessary preparations to exclude or kill the snakes.

Remember that for one person killed by snakes a thousand are killed by the disease germs that the fly scatters on food.

AVOID FLIES AND YOU AVOID DISEASE.

So, Mr. Hoffstot Is to Be Extradited

We Suppose He Won't Go to Jail But His Present Squirmings Are Interesting who has thousands of workmen living in miserable huts near Pittsburgh, in the State of Pennsylvania.

He is the gentleman who told his workmen vigorously and haughtily that they must come humbly to him on their knees and accept any conditions that he chose to impose.

He is the gentleman whose methods were condemned by impartial and conservative investigators from New York.

And, by the way, he's the man who talked so earnestly about "muck-raking."

He is the individual—there are many like him—who thought it was a shameful thing to "criticize a court," or to show any disrespect for the order of "established authorities."

This Mr. Hoffstot at present is accused of shameful crime in Pennsylvania—crime without excuse, since he was rich and didn't need additional funds.

This Mr. Hoffstot, with the fine palace in the State of New York, and the miserable, half-fed workmen in the State of Pennsylvania, is now squirming and dodging, like any pickpocket running from a policeman—so far as squirming and dodging are concerned.

We do not COMPLAIN Mr. Hoffstot with an ordinary pickpocket—and we leave it to him to decide whether that is out of consideration for the pickpocket or for him.

The courts in the State of Pennsylvania, where he makes his money, want to try Mr. Hoffstot for bribery, and they want to put him in jail if they can convict him.

Does Mr. Hoffstot now show that "respect for the courts" which he has so warmly recommended to laboring men under injunction?

Not a bit of it. Mr. Hoffstot hires lawyers to defend him against the courts. He says he WON'T go home to be tried.

We spoke pretty frankly about this Mr. Hoffstot in this column some time ago. Our readers will be interested to find that there was apparently some basis for our assumption that the gentleman was NOT a model citizen—not exactly fitted to read long sermons to workmen.

We don't know whether Mr. Hoffstot will go to jail or not. He is worth a good many millions, and it is quite likely that he won't go to jail—even if guilty. Of course, if innocent, there isn't the slightest POSSIBILITY of his being convicted of anything.

AND THAT MAKES IT ALL THE MORE IMPORTANT TO KNOW NOW IT HAPPENS THAT HE IS FIGHTING SO EARNESTLY AGAINST THE ORDER OF THE COURTS FOR WHICH HE HAS HITHERTO EXPRESSED SUCH A PROFOUND RESPECT!

Why does he fear them?

The Esteemed Transcript Finds Little to Applaud in the Beacon Hill Situation

By C. O. POWER

UNDER the caption "Our Frightened Legislature," the esteemed Transcript writes a severe and impressive indictment of the Republican members of the Great General Court, using up five columns of space to complete the account of their cowardice, selfishness, dishonesty and general ineptitude.

A more suitable headline for this so-called "frank analysis" would be "Corruption Threatens Republicans."

Editorially the Transcript refers to "these men of Beacon Hill" and declares that "under the various committees of the State can persuade larger men to accept service in the legislature the members here of the Commonwealth will be seriously hampered."

The Transcript's severe condemnation of Republican legislators and their methods as a part of their platform and adds to it the promise to bring order out of chaos in Beacon Hill and rescue honest voters from interests that have been hampered and imperiled by Republican ineptitude and mendacity, as declared by the members of the conservative wing of the ruling party.

One can hear the voice of Senator Murray crying out against the Transcript's attack, but, of course, it would be a capital offense for any Republican to say so. There is an unspoken reference to Crane in this headline over a chapter telling why, under present conditions, the State House is no place for a modest man: "The Quiet Man Disquieted." Four Senators and six House members are described as being in the majority.

Governor Draper does not escape mild criticism, albeit he is commended on account of the disposition of Republican leaders to refuse to take measures to deal with the situation. But he is blamed for being cold, reserved, and for having a too stolid pride of his own opinion.

And Crane's methods of "instilling the letter of the constitution" in order to smooth the legislative pathway are pointed for Draper's benefit.

Planning measures of a legislative for getting to please their constituents and with another term, and then urging a Governor to "hold in the compass against doubtful measures," and to reach to all parts of the State and use every man, as in days gone by, as Governor, would be greeted in this crowd as were utterances of a madman. It is hardly the proper ethical position.

The Special Interest Code of the Machine

It smacks too much of the special interests code, of the Republican political machine's idea of the duty as the agent of the special interests, that the end justifies the means, even to the extent of shutting the constitutional provisions of the charter. And it needs to state that other features of the "frank analysis" into
